Delaware only turned out 300,000 baskets of peaches this year, against 4,000,000 baskets last year. We should be pleased to see that state raise more fruit and less Democrats.

It gives us great pleasure to note the re-election as Register of Deeds, in and for Summer county, Kansas, our long time friend, Hon. T. A. Hubbard, late of Barry county, Michigan, by the decided majority of 901 votes.

Indications point to the complete success of the National Dairy fair, soon to be held at Cedar Rapids, Iowa. It is a gathering of great interest to the dairymen of the country and should be largely attended.

Two of the star route thieves have been indicted by the Grand Jury now in session at Washington, Contractor Brott and Deputy Auditor Lillie, the latter for accepting a bribe. We fear there are others that deserve a like fate.

The majority for the Re-adjusters in Virginia, on Attorney General is 12,273, and they have 22 majority on joint ballot in the Legislature. The vote for Governor and Lieut. Governor is canvassed by the Legislature in joint convention.

Harry Sherwood, of Kalamazoo, is believed to have the inside, in the contests for postmaster of the House of Representatives at Washington. Well, Harry made an efficient and popular officer before, and we doubt not would do so again, if elected.

It is said that Rice A. Beal, of the Ann Arbor Courier, is in Washington working to secure the appointment of Capt. E. P. Allen of Ypsilanti, as Commissioner of Patents. He could not be working for a more deserving man for that, or any other official position.

The Washington Republican says there are on file in the clerk's office of the house 15,000 southern claims that have been rejected by the southern claims commission and brought to congress for action. Having been rejected by the claims commission they should at once be rejected by Congress.

The Post & Tribune says "the prohibitory law in Kansas has brought out a tremendous amount of sickness. The quantity of liquor purchased for medicinal purposes shows a wide spread ailment in the state." In this, perhaps the P. & T. made a confession that it did not intend, viz: That the Prohibitory liquor law in Kansas, is pretty thoroughly enforced as far as the sale of intoxicants in saloons, is concerned.

The long session of Congress begins next Monday. Present indications point to a prolonged struggle for the nomination of a candidate for Speaker in the Republican caucus on Saturday, and we are sorry to be compelled to say that they do not point to the selection of the Michigan candidate, though he is as competent and deserving as any man in the House; and in the past has done most efficient service in many of the States.

One Thousand Dollars, are offered by the publishers of the Youth's Companion for the two best short stories for young people. The Companion gives more than two hundred stories, yearly, by the most noted authors, besides one thousand articles on topics of interest, anecdotes, sketches of travel, poems, puzzles, incidents, humorous and pathetic. It comes every week, is handsomely illustrated, and is emphatically a paper for the whole family.

The Post & Tribune. It gives us great pleasure to call the attention of our readers to the Prospectus of The Post & Tribune for the year 1882. We know its value as a newspaper, and as a reliable Republican Journal, and commend it to our friends with confidence as a paper that will interest, and instruct every reader, and that never fails in the work of pushing forward every public enterprise of value to the State of Michigan. We ask special attention to their offer of the Life of Zachariah Chandler, Michigan's great war Senator, and their weekly one year for the small sum of $2.75. Any of our subscribers desiring the Weekly Post and Tribune, can have both it and THE TIMES for 1882, for $2.75 and if desired, the two papers and the Life of Mr. Chandler for $4.00. Read the Prospectus, and order the Post & Tribune, Daily or Weekly, with or without the Life of Mr. Chandler, from us. We will furnish it at the lowest club rates.

Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee Railway.

The Managing Director of this road makes the following announcement in a recently published card:

The undersigned begs to thank the public for their patronage during the past summer, and their appreciation of the efforts of this company to establish a first-class through passenger line from Milwaukee. The new steamer City of Milwaukee has been laid up for the winter, and will resume running on the Grand Haven route about the commencement or middle of April next, in connection with the same efficient train and sleeping car service as during the past season.

The winter service will be performed by the two new iron boats, Michigan and Wisconsin, which are the most complete and powerful propellers ever afloat on the lakes. Their speed will average eleven to twelve miles per hour, and they have luxurious passenger accommodations.

Pitiful Slander. Under the above head, we find in the November 17th number of Harper's Weekly, the following brief article which is worthy of the serious consideration of every American citizen:

There are certain things too ridiculously pitiful even for party malice to assert, and among them may be classed, such assertions as that Mr. Sherman employed a man to work "five-eighths" of a day upon his barn or house, and charged the expense to the account of some public fund.

No decent newspaper which publishes such a story believes it, and this kind of malignant gossip is one of the indecencies which tend to deter honorable men from entering public life. In the very opening of the third volume of Von Holst's Constitutional History of the United States, just published, the author speaks of the vile methods to which party orators and presses descend in a Presidential campaign, and of the evident contempt of the people for what they have heard said of the candidates. It may be safely maintained that if Mr. Sherman was justly censurable for his conduct while Secretary of the Treasury—which the country will be slow to admit—it was not because he cheated the government of the price of five-eighths of a day's work by a carpenter.

The Spoils System.

The logical conclusion to be drawn from the arguments of the men and the newspapers that persist in attributing the assassination of President Garfield to the spoils system, can be applied with equal force and effect against any government Republican in form. This is the only government under the sun, where every man can, if he chooses, be an aspirant for any office, with the slightest prospect of having his aspiration realized; and it seems to us that such aspirations, under proper restrictions, are both right and proper.

It was this fact that made Guiteau an aspirant for an appointment, which, even if he had no qualifications for the position, he had a perfect right, as an American citizen, to be an applicant for; and if he shot the President because of his failure to secure the place, and if any system can be held responsible for his conduct, it must be charged against a government of the people, for the people, and by the people. There is no escape from this conclusion, if we admit the premises, and we do not see how any well informed person, can reasonably fail to do that, who believes in a government Republican in form.

Temperance in Russia.

In the Interior of the 17th ult., we find the following notice of the movement now going on in Russia, for lessening the evils growing out of the use and abuse of alcoholic drinks:

"The Emperor of Russia appointed a commission some months ago to investigate the causes and remedies for the increasing intemperance in the use of alcoholic drinks in his dominions. Of this commission the great statesman Ignatieff was chairman.

The commission has reported and recommended a very effective schedule of reforms, viz:

There shall be but one drinking place in any village.

The village councils of any number of adjacent villages may agree that one drinking place shall suffice for all.

In each of these houses tea, coffee, and other non-alcoholic drinks shall be kept for sale, and a supply of good water shall be dispensed free.

The keeper of the house shall be a resident of good character, shall be paid a salary, and the profits of the business go to the village treasury for local improvements.

He shall be fined and removed if he sell to drunkards.

If kept improperly the house may be closed by the district governor.

Every person found drunk also to be punished.

It is believed that these propositions will soon be issued in a decree by the Emperor.

In this reform Russia is in advance of every other European country."
